I have hidden your word in my heart, that I might not sin against you.

Introduction/Invitation

In 2009, I did something I had attempted and failed at many times before. I read the entire Bible cover to cover in one year. In the process, I got to know God a little better, my love of his Word was reignited, and I actually enjoyed it! The only thing that would have made it better would have been to have a group of reading companions on the journey.

That's where you come in. I would love for you to join me as I repeat the Bible reading adventure in 2010. The enclosed Bible reading plan¹ will be our journey guide. Each day, except Sunday, we will read a passage from both the Old and New Testaments. Each Sunday we will pause from our reading to reflect on what we have read.

Some days the reading will be pure delight, and you will have a hard time putting it down. Other days it will be all you can do just to plod through it. (The mind-numbing lists and genealogies in 1 Chronicles were like that for me.) But if you stick with it, I promise it will be well worth the effort.

I will be blogging about what we're reading each week, and you can join in the discussion at: <http://newhope4all.blogspot.com>. Since this will be my first blogging experience, I ask that you cut me some slack and extend a little grace. I will certainly need it!

Now for some practical advice: When you fall behind in your reading, and if you're like me you will, don't be too hard on yourself and don't get discouraged. Just pick it back up and start reading again. If you're just a few days behind, you can double up on your daily readings, and you'll be caught up again in no time. If you feel hopelessly behind, jump back in where you should be, and then catch up with the missed readings as you are able. If you miss a reading or two here and there, it's not the end of the world, but I can attest to the fact that there is significant joy and a great feeling of accomplishment when you are able to say, "I've read every word of God's Word." So stick with it!

If I can help you in any way on your journey, I would be thrilled to do so.

May God bless the reading of His Word in 2010!
